The Fuller Center for Housing elects three new leaders to international board

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE 03/27/11

(Americus, GA) –The Fuller Center for Housing officially welcomed Todd Sloan, Robert Abel and Don Erler to the organization’s 20-member board of directors at its third annual covenant partner conference in Louisville, KY, March 19 and 20.

““We are fortunate to have such a committed group of extraordinary individuals on our board,” David Snell, president of The Fuller Center, said.

Robert Abel, who retired in 2001 from his position as a senior auditor for the Department of Health and Human Services, served on The Fuller Center advisory council for two years and was highly involved with Habitat for Humanity in a variety of roles for the past eight years. He also served as a founding board member for H.O.P.E. (For All), a non-profit organization based in Maryland.

“Continuing to serve in Millard’s [the founder of The Fuller Center for Housing] footsteps as a Fuller Center board member would be a personal honor,” Abel said. “I frequently pray for the resources and opportunities that will allow the Fuller Center for Housing to remain true to its Christian roots and founding principles while finding greater awareness among the world’s populations.”

Todd Sloan is currently a district sales manager for Linear Technology Corporation in Ohio. Sloan has had a variety of experiences with non-profit ministries, serving as an advisor and spokesman for the Cleveland Pregnancy Center and as a volunteer, donor and advisory board member for The Fuller Center.

“I have a heart for the ministry, I have seen firsthand the impact on the people The Fuller Center helps and I have some experience and skills that can help advance the cause,” Sloan said.

Don Erler has 24 years of experience in public, private and government accounting, law practice, and commercial real estate brokerage and auctioneering. He is currently a senior advisor and real estate auctioneer for Sperry Van Ness/Ward commercial group.

He has also served as the president and chairman of The Fuller Center in Louisville for the past two years. Members of this Fuller Center covenant partner recently hosted the Derby City Build, a four-day effort to renovate five houses for residents in Louisville.

“We have pledged to become an example to be followed by other covenant partners,” Erler said. “Together, we can all really make a difference in the lives of the truly working poor here and abroad.”

About the Fuller Center for Housing:

The Fuller Center for Housing is an ecumenical Christian non-profit started in 2005 by Habitat for Humanity founders Millard Fuller and Linda Fuller as a way to continue their vision of a grassroots movement working to eliminate poverty housing worldwide. Since its founding, Fuller Center volunteers and families have built or repaired over 1,000 homes worldwide. The work is expanding with more than 80 covenant partners now serving their communities.
