Who are we?

The Fuller Center for Housing is an ecumenical Christian affordable housing ministry that partners with families to repair existing homes and build new houses. We were founded in 2005 by Presidential Medal of Freedom recipient Millard Fuller, who also founded Habitat for Humanity.

Families need your help

The Fuller Center works with affiliates called covenant partners in dozens of communities across the U.S. and in 16 other countries. Contact the covenant partner in your area to learn about their specific needs and the best ways in which you can make a difference. Most common needs are:

- Volunteers — individuals, as well as church, school and other groups
- Donations — monetary and gifts of materials and supplies
- Board members — eager to work and engage people in the mission
- Homeowner partners — people who need a hand up and are willing to work alongside our volunteers
